

They're Close Friends

Though there's sometimes a little competition as to who's going to get the lion's share of the spotlight, this collie and duck are the closest of friends. Here they go through one of their daily routines, eating dog food from the same dish. The duck—Willie—prefers the canine ration to corn. Another of their favorite tricks is chasing passing automobiles together. Feeding them is their master, Craig Heller, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Heller of Royersford.

SHOPLIFTER
DRAWS 1-5

Woman Aiding Him
Ordered Sent to State School

SENTENCING IS DEFERRED
FOR ANOTHER PERSON

A man convicted of shop lifting men's suits in Pottstown was sentenced yesterday to serve from one to five years in Eastern penitentiary.

Montgomery County Judge William F. Dannehower Jr. also ordered the man, Lester Nelson, Philadelphia, to serve out the 3½-year balance of a prison term for robbery. Nelson had been freed on parole 3½ years before that sentence expired. His shoplifting conviction was a parole violation.

The woman convicted of working with him in stealing the suits from three High street stores, Lillian Johnson, Philadelphia, was sentenced to serve an indeterminate period in the State Industrial School for Women, Muncy.

Sentencing of Howard Baker, Philadelphia, under conviction for conspiring with the other two, was deferred by the Court because Baker's attorney, Horace Davenport, has filed a motion for a new trial.

Baker's wife, Dorothy, the fourth one arrested, had been cleared.

The four were arrested three weeks ago after store managers complained to Pottstown police, who relayed a message to police in Norristown, where the four were apprehended.

Trailing behind a truck-load of 125 sheep, a Pottstown-area man and his two rugged sons set out at dusk last night on a trip that will take them more than a hundred years into the past.

Kurt Wieneke, former football coach, former college professor, left his Pottstown farm for New England and a small town called Dorset, near Manchester, in Vermont.

There, with his wife and sons, he will be completing a strange circle in history that began before the birth of the 19th century.

He bought a farm up there the past August. He owns 1000 acres of land that is steeped in the legends of the Revolutionary war and the Green Mountain boys.

ON THE LAND is a farm house that was built 160 years ago, about 1795. That's where they'll live.

And for a living, Wieneke will raise sheep—an occupation that flourished in Vermont more than 100 years ago.

He was born around Pittsburgh but coached football at Phoenixville High school from 1932 to 1943.

In 1943, he joined the Red Cross and served overseas for two years during the war.

Then, for two years he coached at Norristown high school. In 1947, he took a job coaching football and teaching physical education at Ursinus college.

HE COACHED football till 1950 then remained on until now, where he still teaches, as wrestling coach.

But about five years ago, he met a man who was to change his whole life. That man was E. A. (Continued on Page Three)

North Chester County
Group to Meet With

BOARDS TO BE INFORMED
OF STATE APPROVED PLAN

Ten townships in the north-Chester county area will hear of a plan this month whereby they would take part in a huge school consolidation program.

School board directors from the ten townships will meet with Chester County superintendent of schools at 6:30 p. m. on June 16 for a dinner meeting at North Coventry elementary school.

The group will be told about the plan that was submitted by the county superintendent, Clyde T. Saylor, to the State Board of Education.

The State board already has approved of the plan.

THE TEN TOWNSHIPS that would be affected by the plan are North Coventry, East Coventry, South Coventry, Warwick, Elverston, West Nantmeal, East Nantmeal, West Vincent, East Vincent and Spring City.

Superintendent Saylor said he could not give out any of the details of the approved plan until it had been presented to the school board directors on June 16.

When asked if it contemplated a jointure of elementary grades or of high school grades he said,

BRANCH BANKS
SET OPEN HOUSE

New Buildings Will Open
To Public View on June 20

The National Bank of Pottstown's two branch banks—in the East End and in Stowe—will be open to the public June 20, it was announced yesterday by C. Fred Herbsleb, president, and Henry A. Bell, board chairman.

There will be an open house at both branches from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. that Saturday, complete with souvenirs for everybody and 20-inch balloons for children, Vice President Harry C. Gingrich reported.

The branch banks will be open for business the following Monday morning, June 22.

The East End bank is at High and Wilson streets, across High street from Firestone boulevard. The Stowe bank is along High street, a few hundred feet west of the Pottstown borough line.

MANAGER OF THE STOWE office will be Paul I. Mogel. William Oberlander will manage the East End office.

Construction of the branches—first in the Pottstown area—was announced the past June, following the Winter merger of the National Bank and the National Iron bank.

It was announced then that each branch building would cost in the neighborhood of $150,000-$200,000.

With the exception of a six-weeks delay enforced by a steel strike, the buildings are being completed almost exactly on the target date.

THE BUILDINGS were designed by Harold Lewis Shay, Philadelphia architectural firm.

Of the opening, Gingrich said, "We think it will be a rather big day. We think it's a real step forward for Pottstown."

DOG AND DUCK
ARE REAL PALS

Collie Lived Normal Life,
But Easter Gift
Changed Story

There's a collie dog in Royersford that's so completely "fowled" up these days she isn't sure anymore whether she's supposed to retrieve rubber balls or sit on them and hatch them.

For five years this collie had lived a normal dog's life—chasing automobiles, biting mailmen, shedding hair all over the living room furniture and guests, scaring newborn babies, barking at the milkman at five in the morning, and occasionally, for the record, pulling a drowning child from the drink.

But since the past Easter, pandemonium—confusing and sometimes irritating—has been this canine's lot.

For on the past Easter, Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Heller, Third avenue and Summer street, Royersford, bought two trembling, naked baby ducks for their nine-year-old son, Craig.

NOW THE COLLIE—named Patsy—wasn't jealous. As a matter of fact, the ducklings were so pathetically bare that when her young master was through playing with the ducks for the night, she'd stand guard over them in the cellar.

One of the ducklings died.

But the other, called Willie, put on weight and sprouted feathers and began to look more and more like a duck every day.

And as he grew, his affection for the dog developed—erupted would be better—until now the dog has a friend for life.

WHEN SHE runs after cars, the duck waddles along with her, trying to keep pace.

When the collie barks and snarls at the mailmen, the duck is right behind her with a quack-quack.

When the dog curls up in the shade of the trees in the yard, the duck squats on her front paws and goes to sleep.

So now no matter what Patsy does to make like a dog, she gets (Continued on Page Three)

Church Officials to Join
In Cornerstone Services

By NORMAN REED

The cornerstone of Pottstown's new Grace Lutheran church will be set in place tomorrow afternoon.

Ceremonies on the site of the new structure at Charlotte street and Nightingale avenue will begin shortly after 3 o'clock the Rev. Edgar S. Brown Jr., pastor, announced.

Rev. Brown

The Rev. Asa Wohlson, Allentown, pastor of Grace church from 1937 to 1948, will participate in the service by reading the Scripture lesson.

A procession will begin the gala occasion, leaving the present church, West and Evans street, at 3 o'clock.

In the procession will be crucifers, flag bearers, choirs, clergy and the congregation itself.

SEVERAL OTHER pastors from the Pottstown area are expected to join the Reverends Fischer, Wohlson and Brown in the walk to the new church location.

The green cornerstone, bearing a Greek cross on its short side and the mark "A. D. 1953" on the longer side, will be set in place after greetings, Scripture readings and prayers by the participating clergy.

Dr. Fischer will strike the stone three times after it has been laid, mentioning each (Continued on Page Seven)

Lemons on Auto
Bring Sour Looks

Employees of a Pottstown automobile concern were giving sour looks yesterday afternoon to a man who was sitting across the street from them in a car on which he had painted two big, bright lemons.

The sales manager of the concern explained that the man had bought the car from one of its salesmen. It was the salesman's own personal car, not one of the concern's sales manager emphasized.

petition to be sent Health Officer on Chronic Water Hole

An informal petition aimed at removal of the chronic water hole near Wilson street—homes will be sent the borough health officer.

This was reported last night by Mrs. John Kuhns, 578 Wilson street, a spokesman for the group of homeowners between Washington and Adams streets.

They protested Thursday that a 36-inch concrete pipe for a storm sewer, which ends only 50 feet from the Kuhns' home, has brought pools and fingers of water that are dangerously deep in rainy weather and dangerously stagnant in dry weather.

John Frain, chairman of borough council's health and sanitation committee, said yesterday that he felt sure that if the stagnant-water situation continues, Borough Health Officer Benjamin C. Steele would take action to have the property-owner fix the condition.

FRAIN POINTED out that Steele would have to be notified.

Mrs. Kuhns said promptly that she would write Steele a letter explaining the problem and have it signed by a group of residents whose backyards face the unsightly water hole.

One child already has fallen in the water hole. Others have been seen drinking the stagnant water. In addition, residents complained the pool was breeding mosquitos and other insects.

Weekend Weather
May Bring Rain,
Dampen Sunbathing

If you're one of the many who figure on traveling to the mountains or seashore for some weekend fun, better take along a raincoat, just in case.

For southern New Jersey points, the weather bureau predicts mostly fair weather and quite warm today with a probable high reading of 85 to 90 degrees.

The catch is that scattered thundershowers are foreseen for this afternoon and tonight.

Considerable cloudiness is expected for Sunday at the coast and not quite so warm. Scattered showers and thunders are predicted.

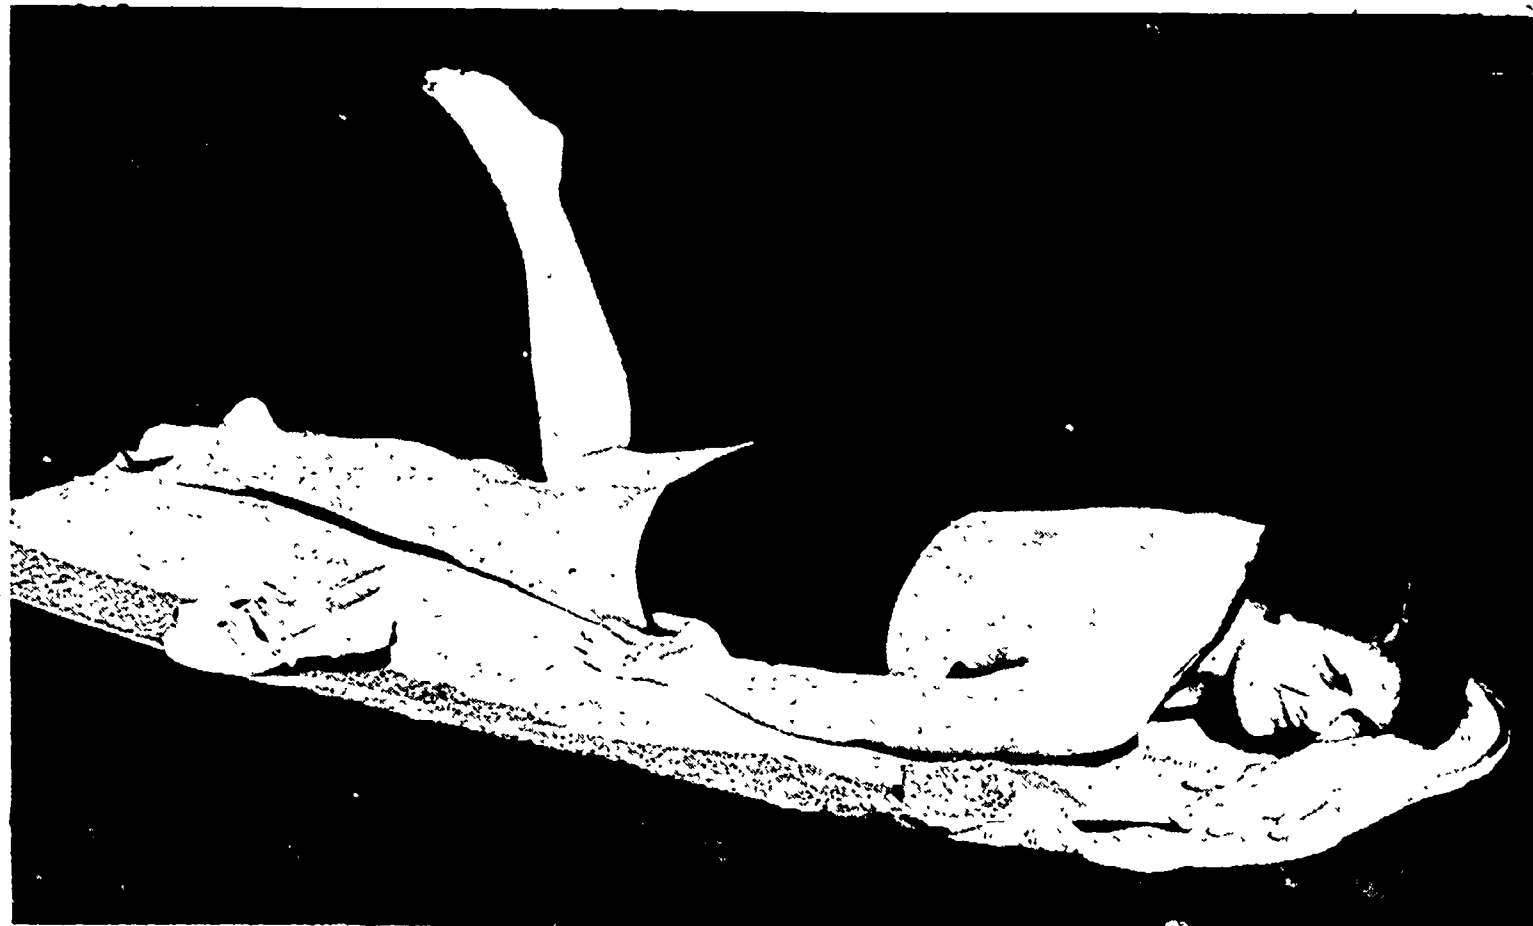

IN THE mountain areas, warm and humid weather is seen with chances for a good suntan bucking expected considerable cloudiness and scattered showers.

On the matter of traveling the highways to get to the resort areas, if you're a motorist who is afraid of becoming just one more link in a bumper-to-bumper chain of cars, you may be right.

Highway traffic began picking up yesterday, police reported.

State police at Paoli said, "With a nice weekend we'll probably get heavy traffic (Continued on Page Three)

She Found It a Nice Day for Basking!

After three straight days of sunshine, with not a one of the previous month's rainclouds in sight, Bernadette Montague, 529 North Franklin street, yesterday decided it's safe to go ahead and try to soak up a little of that salubrious sun. Bernadette didn't stay too long in the sun, though, because she didn't want to get her back burned. The outlook for weekend weather isn't too promising, the weatherman predicted, and many Pottstowners may be forced to forego sunbathing plans because of rain

Milk Dealers Ask For State Hearing

HARRISBURG, June 5 (AP)—A milk price hearing for the Pittsburgh milk marketing area will be held by the State Milk Control commission in Pittsburgh June 8. Milk dealers asked for the hearing, claiming that all conditions affecting the cost of receiving, processing and delivering milk "call for a complete and thorough hearing."

A new contract signed by 54 major milk firms and an AFL union raised dairy workers' wages ten cents an hour. Driver-salesmen got the same raise.

Current prices in the Pittsburgh area are: Retail, 24 cents a quart for home-delivered standard milk, 23 cents for cash-carry from stores; $6.08 1/2 to producers for a hundredweight (46 1/2 quarts).

HOUSE APPROVES Legumes in Pastures Improves Crops NEW SET-UP UNDER BENSON

Reorganization Plan Creates Three New Posts

Dr. Hugh Bennett inspecting an 88-acre pasture improved by the addition of white clover, hop clover and lespedeza.

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The House stamped final approval on President Eisenhower's plan of reorganization for the Agriculture department.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson put out a statement expressing his gratification. He said "no radical" changes would be made in the immediate future, but that each branch of the department will be studied to determine whether shifts are needed.

The plan creates three new assistant secretaries and gives Benson authority to centralize control over department functions. The plan had the announced purpose of aiding efficiency and cutting expenses.

Benson said new assistant secretaries are expected to go to John H. Davis, present head of the department's Commodity Marketing and Adjustment group; Romeo E. Short, director of the Foreign Agriculture Service; and Richard D. Apin, present head of the Department Administration Group of Agencies.

THE PLAN was the second of ten Eisenhower reorganization proposals to be accepted by Congress. The first plan set up the new Department of Health, Welfare and Education.

The other proposals are still in committee. They involve the justice and defense departments, office of defense mobilization, the export-import bank, creation of a foreign operations administration, and US information agency, the council of economic advisers, and air mail subsidies.

The House action came on a parliamentary maneuver by Representative Fountain (D-NC) to try and force an adverse vote on the plan.

By a 261-to-128 vote, the House rejected Fountain's motion to force the government operations committee to send to the floor his resolution of disapproval—which has been bottled up in committee.

Insect Pest Found In Nearby Counties

HARRISBURG, June 5 (AP)—The State Agriculture department said an insect pest new to Pennsylvania has been found on farms in York and Lancaster counties near the Maryland border.

Dr. Thomas L. Guyton, director of the State Bureau of Plant Industry, said the alfalfa weevil apparently came into this State from neighboring Maryland.

Guyton said efforts are being made by the Agriculture department to see that the pest does not reach other productive alfalfa farms in Eastern Pennsylvania.

It is believed the pest came into Maryland in Western alfalfa hay delivered to race tracks, the bureau chief said.

Until a year or so ago it was known only in some Central, Western and Southwestern States where day conditions prevail.

Guyton said the pest now exists in six counties in Maryland, three in New Jersey, various parts of Delaware and a small area in Virginia.

While the importance of legumes in meadows and pastures is almost universally acknowledged, the specific values of legumes are not always fully recognized.

In a recent address before the American Dairy Science Association, Ralph E. Hodgson, assistant chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, stressed the importance of legumes in dairy pastures and why the dairyman should go all the way in the use of legumes in new pasture seedings and in renovating old grass pastures.

It is estimated that the average yield of present-day pastures has been no more, and probably less, than the average hay crop which is below 1 1/2 tons per acre, or about 1500 pounds of total digestible nutrients (TDN).

The inclusion of legumes in the pasture mixture not only increased the protein content of the mixed forage but also the protein content of the grass grown in association with the legumes, as well as the total yield of protein per acre, so that it should much more adequately provide the total protein needs of grazing animals.

Gardening this Week

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
CHAPPAQUA, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—The annual gardening problem about which I have no clue for a solution confronts me now. It is a problem about how to acquire a handsome tan.

Golfers tan in a rather artistic way—the bronzed lower face and the mark of the glove on the hand. Swimmers and sun-bathers tan gloriously, bleached hair, brown face, arms, shoulders and legs.

But we gardeners tan like ditch diggers, and I don't know how to improve the situation unless I work in a portable tent and stay pristine. My face is as white as it was in January.

So are the fronts of my legs. My back, shoulders and the backs of my legs are a deep bronze. I'm mottled, and this isn't beautiful. Also I have calluses from wielding tools, broken fingernails from weeding and scratches from sharp encounters with brambles. And usually a few bites from enraged insects.

My peonies are coming into bud, and I gave them a quick feeding of manure water, diluted to the color of weak tea. I'm for as many blooms as possible without emphasis on a few prize flowers, so I don't keep them pinched back. I do pinch back the chrysanthemums, which are growing handsomely, because I want my bushes to be as spreading and broad as possible, rather than tall and leggy. It's an easy chore, nipping out the forming head and thus forcing the plants to produce side branches.

The rock garden needs attention now. One job is to keep the spreading perennials from taking over. The early flowering Phlox subulata—ground pink—has finished, and can easily be divided. It grows easily and handsomely in most situations.

I ALWAYS LET my grape hyacinth seed and over the years have watched large clumps grow undisturbed. Some of them are getting a little too large now, and I'm going to transplant them after the seed heads have formed and they've died down a bit.

As usual, I'm having my annual losing battle with the Chinese lantern plant. It sends out underground roots all over the place and if left undisturbed would take over completely. I rip out every emerging shoot I spot, knowing from experience I will overlook enough so that toward fall I'll have a good enough show of its splashy, bright-orange pods. Until the lanterns turn orange, however, it's not much of a garden addition, having rather unattractive foliage and an almost invisible flower.

Sowings for late Summer displays can be kept up—even for such annuals as snapdragon, larkspur and sunflowers. I started my first sunflowers—Mammoth Russian—early indoors and put them out as soon as the ground had warmed up and followed with several feet of row. Sunflowers are attractive, but my object in growing them isn't entirely esthetic: they are my favorite economy.

I save the seed for the birds during the winter, mixing it in with the wildbird seed I buy.

I have my crab-grass controls in readiness, as the calendar says that next week is the proper time for the first application when those aggressive young seedlings are most vulnerable. Three applications usually are necessary to hold the persistent weed down.

Meanwhile, I've got the lawn mower's blades set high—two and one-half inches above the ground—to give the good lawn grasses root protection during coming hot weather and also to provide shade for crabgrass, which loathes it.

It's no time to prune young evergreens which aren't yet established, but it's never out of season to cut back a straggling growth here or there.

County Milk Income To Top $7 Million

HARRISBURG, June 5—Montgomery county will have a $7,780,500 income from milk this year. This multi-million dollar prediction was made today by the Pennsylvania June Dairy Month committee which released these figures:

The county's dairy farmers will produce over 41,950,000 quarts of milk valued at $4,938,500.

Wages, which milk dealers and processors will pay to Montgomery county employees, will top $2,842,000.

"The income from milk will keep filling in service stations, grocery stores, insurance offices and all other types of businesses throughout the county," said Joseph O. Canby, chairman of the June Dairy Month committee.

PRUNE SHRUBS AFTER BLOOM

Remove Oldest Canes To Retain Plants' Growth

Prune flowering shrubs immediately after they finish flowering because next year's flowering wood is produced after the flowering period, advises R. G. Waltz, county agent. Cut off one-fourth to one-third of the 1952 growth and remove completely one or several of the oldest canes.

Don't merely make a straight cut two to three feet above the soil level, but rather maintain the natural habit of growth.

Privet hedges can be sheared for the second time in June. If shearing is not done periodically, the hedge becomes unmanageable and the plants may have to be cut down to ground level to allow new shoots to form a new hedge.

Evergreen hedges can be sheared in June, also, but refrain from severe pruning.

Choose fast growing ones such as zinnias, marigolds, and petunias.

Biennials and perennials sown in June will produce early flowering plants for next year.

Two Twilight Meetings Are Scheduled

The meetings called for Monday night on the farm of J. Herbert Gill, Cochranville and Tuesday night on the farm of George R. McAfee, Nantmeal, will discuss the problems of fly control in stables and on animals, leafhopper control on alfalfa, slug control on corn seedlings, preventing insect losses in stored grains, erosion control and soil management.

Dr. Henry N. Menusan, extension entomologist, will be present at these meetings to lead the discussion on profitable insect control measures.

Tomato Fields Showing Stem Canker Infection

Many tomato fields are showing from moderate to heavy infection because of Alternaria stem canker. The amount of Alternaria canker is, usually in proportion to the length of time the plants have been held between receiving and setting in the field.

Cankers and infections that are already present will not be killed out by sprays. However, spraying should reduce the secondary spread to stems and leaves.

Where Alternaria canker infection is moderate to heavy and replanting is impracticable, secondary spread may be prevented by spraying as soon as plants are rooted and by applying additional sprays at ten day intervals.

Evergreen hedges can be sheared in June, also, but refrain from severe pruning.

State Department Reports Near Record Rainfall

HARRISBURG, June 5 (AP)—Spring rainfall in Pennsylvania for the months of March, April and May was the third highest on record, the State Agriculture department reported.

A Federal-State weather and crop survey showed 15.5 inches of rain during that time.

Annual Garden Days at College Set

The annual Garden Days at the University of North Carolina, which include Mrs. Robert A. Reister, Jr., Pennsylvania State college, have been scheduled for June 16 to 18, Tenn., and Miss Eleanor W. David, Philadelphia.

The University of North Carolina's first golf team was organized in 1928. The team won three, lost three and tied one.

Speakers will include members of the college staff and several visiting garden authorities. They will

ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS
Q. My birds just won't perk up after disease. What shall I do?
A. Follow up with Dr. Salsbury's Avi-Tab! Most serious diseases are weakening — birds get rundown and lose appetite. Avi-Tab puts new life in 'em, stirs the appetite, aids digestion, and builds blood. That's why so many poultrymen depend on Avi-Tab as a follow-up flock treatment after disease. Also, use Avi-Tab as a regular conditioner for the flock.

It has made it possible for the average farmer to put up his corn silage easily and quickly without the use of outside help. You can't go wrong when you buy a FOX.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

YOUR GEM STORY FOR TODAY

A man from Pottstown writes, "Can you give a clear description of Igneous Rocks?"

This is as clear as we can describe it:

The temperature of the earth increases at the rate of about one degree for every 60 feet of depth. This ratio holds true for any explored depth. Probably it is not constant through the entire thickness of the earth, but it is logical to suppose that at a depth of 30 or 40 miles the heat is extreme. Certainly it is great enough to melt rocks under ordinary pressures.

But at these depths the pressure is greater than ordinary. The weight of the overlying material is tremendous. The pressure which is produced is sufficient to hold the rocks in a solid state, in spite of the extreme heat.

It is when this pressure is released that the rocks liquefy, or become molten. Weakness in the earth's crust causes great cracks to form and the pressure is released. The molten rock which is then allowed to flow to the surface is commonly called magma.

As this magma reaches the surface and solidifies into rocks—which are then known as igneous—it may assume one of many different forms. The many different forms are as follows:

1. Lava Flows
2. Tuffs
3. Batholiths
4. Stocks
5. Dikes
6. Sills
7. Laccoliths
8. Blows
9. Volcanoes
10. Volcanic Cones

Igneous rocks are only one of the three major groups of rocks in which Gemstones may be found. The other two types are Sedimentary and Metamorphic Rocks.

See you next Saturday.

PET SHOP —

away from the cat, but the bird was dead, Kilburn asserted.

This, he said, was an example of what can happen when people get too kind to birds and other wildlife.

"People should be sure they are in real trouble before they pick them up and try to help them," Kilburn asserted.

THE MERE FACT that a little bird is foundering around on the ground doesn't mean it's in real trouble, he continued, since it's almost impossible for a bird to learn to fly without hitting the ground a few times.

Kilburn said that the greatest kindness to birds usually consists of just watching them, at a respectful distance, to see that cats don't get them before they are able to get back on their wings.

He emphasized that his remarks weren't directed at people who nurse birds or animals that are seriously injured or seriously ill.

The boy who picked up a baby robin with a broken wing, as reported in yesterday's Mercury, is to be commended for his kindness.

But, Kilburn said, the spaghetti that the boy fed the baby robin in place of worms (which the boy couldn't find) "is certainly not the proper diet."

Before people decide to be kind to lost or strayed birds, he said, they should remember that baby birds have to be fed about once every two hours—fed grubs or worms or chick starter, not spaghetti, he added.

JOINTURE —

we'll have to discuss at the meeting."

SAYLOR POINTED OUT that all county superintendents were advised by the State board to formulate future plans for their districts.

"Montgomery county and Berks county both have plans," he said. The proposed consolidation would mean the jointure of only two less townships than are taking part in the mammoth Boyertown jointure, where 12 townships decided to merge.

Of those 12, seven are in Berks county and five in Montgomery county.

SAYLOR SAID concerning the approved plan, "Just because the plan has been approved doesn't mean the townships have to go along with it."

"The meeting is being held to find out how they feel about the plan; about consolidation."

The school facilities in the ten districts invited to the meeting are as follows: North Coventry, Consolidated High school and elementary school; East Coventry, consolidated elementary, Grades one through 8; South Coventry, consolidated, one through eight; Warwick, Consolidated High school and elementary school.

West Nantmeal, Grades one through six; Elverson, Grades one through eight; East Nantmeal, Grades one through six; West Vincent, Grades one through eight; Spring City, High school and elementary school.

Jury Acquits Man Arrested in Series Of Speakeasy Raids

One of the Pottstown area residents arrested in a series of speakeasy raids was acquitted yesterday.

William Jefferson, 48, of 734 Beech street, was found not guilty by a Montgomery County jury after the enforcement agent of the State Liquor Control board testifying against him was unable to show that the woman who had served him (the agent) liquor in Jefferson's home was Jefferson's wife.

Defense Attorney Herbert Nelson pointed out the old common law making a man responsible for his wife's actions committed in his presence, but then produced evidence that the woman who had done the illegal serving was not Jefferson's wife.

Jefferson, it was conceded, had not served liquor when the agent paid the visit.

THE WOMAN, Anna May Richardson, already had pleaded guilty to the liquor charge and been fined $100.

Earlier this week, five other area residents have been found guilty, or pleaded guilty to speak-easy charges arising from the raids.

Dedication to Be Held In Lower Pottsgrove

Merritt S. Wien, head of the Pottstown Veterans council, which represents the veterans' organizations, will conduct the ceremonies.

Speaker during the outdoor dedication will be John C. Saylor, president of the township supervisory board, who headed one of the committees responsible for erection of the monument.

Some of the secretaries also have received orders to go easy with lipstick and rouge.

'Honorable' Patrons Force Stand Closing

SALEM, Ore., June 5 (AP)—Willie's honor newstand is closed. Willie has lost his faith.

Three years ago Will Carver, 60, who hawked papers at State and Liberty streets, the busiest downtown corner, went on a 24-hour basis. When he wasn't there, customers were supposed to take a paper from a rack and drop a nickel in the box.

Right from the start there was trouble. Every month there was a shortage of around $2. But Willie said he didn't mind that. But in January the shortage doubled, went to $26 in April and to $38 in May.

So Willie closed the honor newstand and wrote a piece about it.

"I'm not mad at anyone," he wrote yesterday. "The real hurt is to my childlike faith in the honor newstand."

BLAST LEVELS TEXAS HOMES

At Least Ten Persons Die When Stored Fireworks Explode

HOUSTON, June 5 (AP)—Spouting smoke and a ball of flame, a warehouse packed with 4th of July fireworks blew up today. The blast crushed nearby homes and apartment houses, killing at least ten persons. Police Chief George Seber said.

At least 75 others were known injured, he reported.

The Alco Fireworks and Specialty company's factory and corrugated steel warehouse "just disappeared" in a blossoming geyser of white smoke and fire. Nearly a block of homes and other buildings were leveled.

Four hours after the explosion, only four bodies had been identified. Three were found in a wrecked cottage behind the warehouse. They were Mrs. Jean Walton, 24, and two small children, John Walton Jr., 2, and Cathy Walton, 4. Most bodies were pulled from houses and apartments.

THE FOURTH body was identified as Mrs. Jessie Jane Braziza, 22, who resided a few doors from the Walton family.

About 16 units of one apartment project were wrecked or badly damaged. An apartment building a block away caught fire.

The dense smoke settled in boiling clouds over the blasted area as rescuers moved in to pull out dead and injured.

Two employees of the fireworks company were in the warehouse when it erupted. They escaped injury.

KENNETH WILLIAMS, general manager, said the 40-by-60 foot building was full of fireworks of all kinds. He said a flash fire set off the blast.

"I don't know what happened," said company owner A. M. Cohen. He was in an office across the street from the plant.

The office was badly damaged, but Cohen escaped injury.

Williams was treated at a hospital for burns and cuts on his right hand, then returned to the demolished plant.

NINTH PURPLE HEART

Albert L. Ireland, 31, of South Bend, Ind., the US Marine Corps' most-wounded veteran, will receive his ninth purple heart medal this month. The former sergeant, a student at Notre Dame university has been hit by shrapnel, bullets and mortar fire in the battles ranging from the swamps of the Solomon islands in World War II to the frozen hills of Korea. He also contracted malaria in Guadalcanal.

Train Speeds Toward Woman on Trestle, She Escapes Harm

ALTON, Ill., June 5 (AP)—A slight woman in blue jeans, trapped on a trestle, flattened herself between the rails today as a passenger train thundered over her. She escaped with nothing more than a few scratches, and still clutched the paper bag containing her lunch.

"It's a miracle—that's all," said Arthur Yordy, the stunned conductor. "I don't see how she ever got out of it alive."

Mrs. Nancy Lyles, 25, her face flushed and almost speechless with fright, was pulled from beneath the eighth car of the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio's midnight special, on its run from Chicago to St. Louis.

Her husband, Leroy, who also had a narrow escape, was one of the first to reach her.

"COME ON OUT, honey," he said as she was helped from beneath the car.

Mrs. Lyles continued on to work at the Western Gartridge company but officials there sent her home to rest from "a mild case of shock."

SECRECY VEILS CRUCIAL TALKS OF TRUCE TEAM

Moscow Says Negotiations In Korea Appear Near Accord

RHEE AGAIN TERMS ALLIED PROPOSAL 'UNACCEPTABLE'

MUNSAN, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—Allied and Red truce delegates met for 19 minutes today at Panmunjom in a crucial session on the prisoner of war issue that is the sole major block to an armistice in Korea.

The Reds asked for and got a recess until 11 a. m. Sunday (10 p. m. Pottstown time, Saturday).

There was no immediate announcement of what took place in the conference hut. Nor was any official word expected. Both sides have agreed to make no public reports on the sessions, now in a highly delicate stage.

A tide of optimism surged through the capitals of the Western and Communist worlds that a truce was near in the Korean War.

EVEN IN MOSCOW, the feeling of optimism was reflected.

The Soviet Government's official newspaper Izvestia reported it "is clear that the sides participating in the talks are extremely close to signing an agreement on an armistice in Korea."

Maj. Gen. Choi Duk Shin, South Korean delegate on the Allied truce team, again boycotted the Panmunjom meeting.

In the past week, South Korean officials have wavered between outright defiance of truce moves and unwilling acquiescence. But the Government's official position took an ominous turn today in the latest statement of Syngman Rhee, 78-year-old President of the Republic of Korea.

Rhee said the Allied truce proposal is "unacceptable." He offered a counterproposal calling for simultaneous withdrawal of both Communist and United Nations troops from Korea and before such withdrawal—a US Republic of Korea defense pact.

Such a pact, Rhee insisted, should include these pledges:

1. Immediate and automatic US military participation if South Korea is attacked.

2. An adequate supply of arms, ammunition and other materials to build up South Korea's military strength.

3. US naval and Air Forces to remain in Korea until their South Korean counterparts are built up strong enough to deter aggression.

"If this proposal is unacceptable," Rhee declared, "we must be allowed to continue to fight."

CLUB WINS AWARD

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The Anthracite Motor club of Hazleton, Pa., received today an award for "outstanding contribution to highway safety during 1952" from the American Automobile association.

FOOT STUCK—Leif Calberg, 3, does not appear too concerned as he sucks on a frozen candy stick while firemen attempt to extricate his foot which was caught in a four-inch drainpipe at Cranston, R.I. Firemen dug down five feet to loosen a joint in the pipe, raise it and then make an opening with a pipe cutter to free the lad who spent an anxious 45 minutes in it.

Court Sentences Young Jet Expert To 5-Year Prison Term for Perjury

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—William Perl, a brilliant young jet propulsion expert, was sentenced to five years in prison today for lying in the Rosenberg atom spy case.

The principals in the case, Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, lost another bid for a stay of execution during the day when the US Court of Appeals refused to tamper with the June 18 death date.

Their defense lawyer, Emanuel H. Bloch, plans new legal moves, plus a possible second appeal for clemency to President Eisenhower. However, these will avail him little unless he can get a stay of sentence.

Perl, 34, is a former Columbia university physics instructor, described by his attorney as "a sort of young Einstein." He is married and has a 10-month-old son.

HE WAS CONVICTED on two counts of perjury May 22 for denying to a Federal grand jury that he knew Rosenberg and Morton Sobell. The latter was convicted of atomic espionage conspiracy with the Rosenbergs and now is serving 30 years in Alcatraz.

The jury recommended mercy for Perl, who faced a maximum of ten years in prison on two perjury counts.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan gave Perl five years each on the two counts but made the sentences run concurrently.

Perl took the sentence without any outward show of emotion. His wife, Henrietta, stepped to his side as the judge finished.

Defense attorney Philip Wittenberg at once launched an appeal. However, he was unable to obtain Perl's freedom on bail pending the outcome of the appeal.

The Government claimed Perl was directly connected with the spy ring that conspired from 1944 to 1950 to betray the atom bomb secrets to Soviet Russia.

US DROPS BANS ON CZECH TRADE

Prague Regime May Start Exports, Imports, Order Says

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The State department announced belatedly today that the United States has lifted three of four restrictions on trade and travel with Communist Czechoslovakia which it imposed after the imprisonment of William N. Oatis.

Under orders put into effect days ago, the dollar-short Prague regime may now resume its former exports to the United States and import non-strategic goods from this country. Americans again may travel to Czechoslovakia provided they submit acceptable reasons for their trips.

The ban on flights of Czechoslovak aircraft over occupied Western Germany required a joint action by the United States, Britain and France and remains in effect for the time being.

The announcement was held up for nearly three weeks after the release of Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, even though it was widely known that the restrictions had been ordered removed days ago. The State department offered no explanation and press officer Lincoln White declared he knew of no decision to try to keep the action secret.

The net effect of lifting the restrictions was to restore relations with Czechoslovakia to the same general basis as those with Poland and some other Iron Curtain countries. Czechoslovakia is expected to profit by the removal of barriers to sales of goods in the US. Before Oatis was jailed on espionage charges two years ago these sales amounted to about two million dollars a month.

Weatherman Sounds New Warnings To Water-Logged Montana Towns

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 5 (AP)—A new flood warning was sounded tonight as rain-choked streams spilled swirling waters into Central and Northern Montana communities along the Milk river valley.

A US Weather bureau bulletin warned "high discharges in the Big Sandy and Sage creeks indicated the Milk river would rise steadily in the Havre area for the next 24 to 36 hours."

Meanwhile, the bureau said the "danger of further flooding" in the Great Falls area "has passed."

Havre Mayor Oval Hattler said some 295 persons would be affected if the Milk river spills over its banks. He said some 50 to 60 volunteer workers were bracing dikes with sand.

THE RAMPAGING Sun river crested early Friday morning, relieving pressure on soggy dikes and weakened bridges.

However, the situation was termed "still bad" in the Great Falls area — hardest hit by the five-day flood.

Mayor James Austin of Great Falls, the State's largest city, said "it is by guess" that 1000 to 3000 persons have been forced to abandon their homes in the Southwest section of the city.

The Red Cross estimated another 1000 have been driven to higher ground in the State's 11 counties around Great Falls. The area has been declared an emergency zone by Gov. J. Hugo Aronson.

No official figures on the number of homeless and amount of property damage were available. "It will take them weeks, even months, to bale out," Aronson's office at Helena, the capitol, commented.

WEATHER —

Saturday and Sunday.
A State police spokesman at Reading said, "Traffic is pretty heavy out there tonight, the boys report."

FOR THE Pottstowners who stay home for the weekend the weatherman sees a repetition of yesterday's warm weather which brought out scanty outfits on sunbathers who sought vantage points from yards and porches to rooftops.

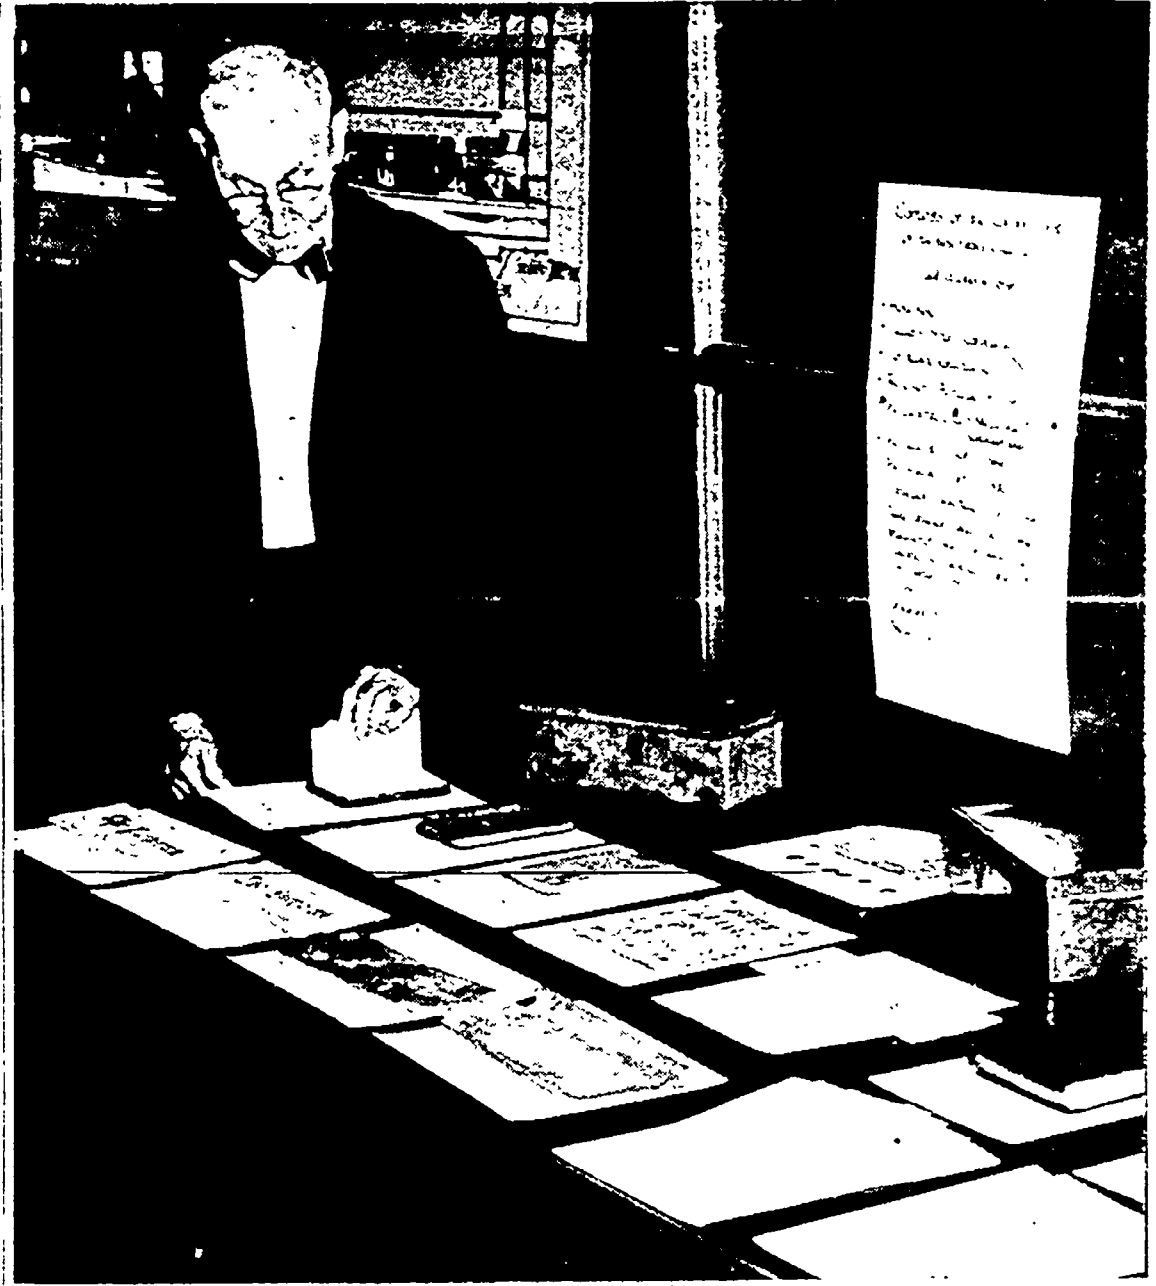

It was a good day for the sunshine addicts, with the temperature getting off to a head start in the high 70's in the morning and staying on the 90-degree mark for most of the afternoon.

The only change from yesterday's weather is showers and thunderstorms, which are expected for today.

Man Enters Guilty Plea To Wife's Assault Charge

GEORGE LONGACRE, charter member of Grace Lutheran church, carefully examines the display of items taken from the cornerstone of the present church, which was built in 1896. The yellowed and fragile books and manuscripts, which have been on display at the church this week, will be transferred to the congregation's new church tomorrow, where they will be placed with other newer items in the new cornerstone during ceremonies beginning shortly after 3 p. m., when a procession will leave the old church for the new church site. Near Longacre is the tin box in which the items rested while in the old cornerstone, while at right is one of the two copper boxes in which the old and new items will be carried in procession and in which they will rest in the corner of the new church home.

$1000 Damage Set As Truck Smashes Two Parked Cars

More than $1000 damage was caused when a 1952 truck, driven by a Perkiomenville man, shot out of control on Route 73 and plowed into two parked vehicles and a station reported yesterday.

The truck, operated by Alvin R. Hoffman, 36, Perkiomenville RD 1, was operating east on Route 73 near Gilbertsville when it shot out of control and glanced off a parked car owned by Leroy Stoudt, 26, Gilbertsville at 5 p. m. Thursday.

The truck then ricocheted into another parked vehicle, a station wagon owned by William H. Brensinger, 43, Gilbertsville.

Both cars were parked on the same side of the street heading east. State police estimated the damages.

Hoffman told State police he lost control of the truck.

Ex-Pottstonian Visits Town After 28 Years

Isaac Heffentrager left Pottstown nearly 28 years ago for Alaska. Yesterday, he was visiting relatives in the borough, on his first trip back from Alaska.

He and his wife, a German-born woman whom he met and married in Alaska, were staying at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Jacob, 936 Chestnut street.

Heffentrager has been a car repairman for the Alaska railroad, living in Anchorage, in South Central Alaska.

In addition to his railroading, he frequently has hunted big game, including moose and brown bear.

Mrs. Heffentrager, as a housewife, noted that many prices in Pottstown are much lower than those in Alaska.

In Alaska, for instance, milk sells for 40 cents a quart; bread, 35 cents a loaf, and butter, $1 a pound.

With Mr. and Mrs. Heffentrager was their 14-year-old son, Forrest, the $100.

only roaring guffaws from the crowds.

THE MAILMAN and milkman are reportedly sore in the ribs from laughing at the duck's humbling antics.

And motorists allegedly drive out of their way to pass the Heller house so they can watch the bird bellow angrily at his friend's greater speed.

But the dog doesn't seem to mind the competition.

As Mrs. Heller says, "They eat out of the same dish. I feed Patsy regular dog food like I always have and Willie is always there to get his share."

"BUT SOMETIMES" he eats it so fast that the dog has to keep nudging him away to get a fair share."

Mrs. Heller said that she still feeds the duck corn occasionally, "but he prefers the dog food."

Patsy tries to get away from him sometimes by slipping into the house where the duck, because he hasn't been taught the proper parlor niceties yet, isn't allowed.

"BUT THE DUCK stands at the door and quacks so loudly that we have to put the dog out with him," Mrs. Heller laughed.

It's especially a laughing matter when Mrs. Heller's uncle, 89-year-old John Ortlip, or nine-year-old Craig decided to take a walk around town with the two.

The collic walks down Royersford's streets with her tail held high because right beside her, is Willie, waddling along and quacking with his head up as if he owned the sidewalk.

Youth Fined for Driving After License Suspension

Alvin Williams, 22, of 710 Mintzer street, was fined $100 yesterday after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

He was arrested the past May 30 by Norristown police. Montgomery county Judge E. Arnold Forrest gave him three months to raise the $100.

1 Incumbent Wins, Other Is Defeated In UAW Election

One incumbent won and another went down in defeat when the votes were counted yesterday after the run-off election of the Doehler-Jarvis Local 1056, United Auto workers, held Thursday.

Re-elected as a trustee was Ralph Sell. He picked up 1119 votes to 659 votes for Sam Ranzzo.

Defeated in his fight for reelection was Gerry Yerger who bowed with 782 votes to Earl D. Bicer. Bicer gained the post with 958 tallies.

Chosen by the voting was Charles Hartenstine for guide. Hartenstine got 909 votes and Ed Monaghan, his opponent, picked up 866.

IN THE GENERAL election the past week, Leonard Keffer was re-elected president of the local.

Chairman of the election committee was Robert Diener, assisted by George Wausnock, Russell Gabriel, Howard G. Hartenstine, and Theodore Vapniarek.

LEMONS ON CAR —

sales manager identified as Robert Poltschek, New Ringgold, had trouble with the car's radiator. It leaked.

Although the car wasn't one of its own, the concern offered to pay half the cost of repairs, the sales manager said. Poltschek wanted it to pay the whole cost, he added.

Poltschek painted lemons, about two by three feet, on both sides of the car yesterday morning, then took the decorated car to a spot across the street from the concern.

The sales manager said the concern hadn't decided whether it would try to do anything about the lemon-painted car. For the time being, he said, the concern would just let him sit.

PIONEER —

Stanford, manager of the George Widener farm, nationally-famous for his horses and other prize animals.

"Mr. Stanford liked me and my boys and taught us about sheep. His sheep were the best in the country," Wiencke said.

The ex-coach started out with 16 Cheviots—a rugged breed of sheep "that the Scots have stuck to for 400 years."

FOR THE PAST five years, he and his sons have worked hard. They learned the business from the bottom up.

The boys, Kuhl Jr., 16, and Karl, 12, are fast becoming experts.

"The oldest boy can shear a lamb in about ten minutes," the father said.

At present, the family has more than 250 sheep. Each is worth about $150. They shipped half of them to Vermont the past week. The rest were moved last night.

VERMONT WAS great sheep country in the early 1800's Wiencke pointed out. "But then the young bucks got the itch to move west," he added.

The sheep business did move west. The great flocks out there now are raised for wool and meat. But those flocks need highly-bred stock for breeding to keep the strain healthy.

That's where the Cheviots come in. They're sold for breeding.

Why is Wiencke going to Vermont? "The grass is better up there. And here there's not enough room. I have too much trouble with dogs and fishermen and fences."

WIENCKE'S SITUATION is reminiscent of that of 150 years ago. A father with two young strong sons setting out to carve a living from a meagerly populated area.

There's one difference. Two hundred years ago, the men were coming from the East. Now they're coming from the West.

Drivers' Names Clarified

The owners and the operators of the two cars involved in a collision at High and Washington streets were inadvertently confused in a news-story in yesterday's Mercury.

The drivers were Dominic Bianchini and David S. Hallman. The owners are Stanley M. Hallman, Pottstown RD 4, and Sante Bianchini, 424 Cherry street.

Some 400 frolicking Lower Pottsgrove school children took advantage of ideal picnic weather yesterday to enjoy themselves at the school's annual outdoor event at Ringing Rocks park.

They were accompanied by their teachers and about 60 parents, who at times, found it no picnic trying to keep up with the youngsters.

Softball and group games were played during the morning with prizes being awarded.

After lunch, activity centered on the roller skating rink.

At the conclusion of the festivities, it was reported the children were tired and dirty, but happy.

SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1953

If instead of a gem, or even a flower, we could cast the gift of a lovely thought into the heart of a friend, that would be giving as the angels give.—George MacDonald.

From The Hill . . .
TOMORROW afternoon The Hill school will graduate the largest class in its glorious 102-year-old history.

A total of 146 of the Blue and Gray will be given honorable departures from one of the nation's leading preparatory schools.

They will receive diplomas — and many of them additional honor awards — with the blessing of Headmaster Edward T. Hall, who will be completing his first year as custodian on the hilltop.

It's a long way that The Hill has gone since John Meigs created a private school for boys away back in 1851. The school has changed immeasurably since that eventful day. Horses have given way to a machine age; sewing bees and spelling bees have been replaced by television; oil lights have yielded to electricity.

But at The Hill, beyond its physical appearance and the faces that dot its campus, it's much the same.

The high standards that Doctor John, as the first headmaster affectionately was called, set for the "gentlemen of The Hill" have been upheld in the noblest tradition. There was never compromise with high ideals, purposeful aims and sterling character. They were required. And should a boy fail to be measured by that yardstick, he was no longer considered a "gentleman of The Hill" and he was requested to leave.

The Hill can be mighty proud of its graduates. They have not only attained eminent distinction in this nation but in their native lands throughout the world. Athletic champions, statesmen, helmsmen of destinies, they have earned their "H" in business, finance — any walk of life they chose.

Pottstown can be justly proud of The Hill, which has brought honor and glory to this community. This school probably has done more to further the fame of Pottstown through the world than any other single factor.

Pottstown can be justly proud of the graduates who years after year move off the hilltop into some of the nation's most responsible positions. The "larnin'" they have received in Pottstown they can be confident will equip them for any test of brain or imagination.

Tomorrow is a glorious day for The Hill.

It's a glorious one for Pottstown, too. Congratulations to the 146 Hill grads. Godspeed and every measure of success in your life undertakings down through the years ahead.

Grace Dream Fulfilled

MEMBERS of Grace Lutheran church, one of Pottstown's most revered congregations, will lay the cornerstone of a new edifice dedicated to the worship and glory of God.

The path to this great day for Grace has been long and arduous. For years, even longer than some of its parishioners can remember, Grace had outgrown its present abode of worship. But new church buildings don't grow on trees; they come only from diligence, determination and great sacrifice.

All Pottstown, regardless of sect and creed, have a peculiar interest in tomorrow's cornerstone laying. When the chips were down, all Pottstown contributed to a mammoth building campaign which Grace put on the past year.

Not only did non-Graceites contribute, but many a non-Graceite actively solicited for this new building.

Heartiest greetings to Grace, and especially to its pastor, the Rev. Edgar S. Brown Jr., on this happy occasion.

June

JUNE is here, despite a lot of evidences to the contrary, and if you are to get your full share of Summer in this uncertain climate you've got to watch the calendar and just go ahead on the assumption that the weather is what it is supposed to be. That's what the lilacs and iris and tulips have done. If they were as hesitant as some amateur gardeners we know, those flowers would give up the fight without a bloom. But instead they manage to make a grand show, come cold or high water — maybe a better display for being held back a bit; certainly a more welcome one when the climate is as varied as it has been this Spring. Somehow the bumps in the weather road cancel each other out and the result, even in a bad year, is a heap of pleasant living.

Creek Stays Filthy; Pretty Gals Lacking!

Creek Still Dirty
To the Editor: It has been quite a while since you published an editorial dealing with cleaning up the Manatawny. Since that time, I have heard little response. People just don't seem to care.

I guess there is no such thing as civic pride in Pottstown any longer, but I think it is downright disgusting the manner in which the creek is kept.

Pottstown should have never built a sewage disposal unit. What they should have done was build a big drainage ditch leading to the Manatawny and let it go at that.

I don't see how the people living down there can stand it. But I guess it's the same old story. They themselves can't keep their own trash and garbage out of the water, so what's the use?

Probably this is one big reason why no one makes an effort to clean it up. I say, before we clean up the Manatawny, we should go down there and show those folks how to live properly.

Pottstown CIVIC MINDED

Pretty Girls-Lacking

To the Editor: In most towns like Pottstown, summers are a good time for me. Since there are no colleges here or girls' schools, the town doesn't lose any girls to their home towns from June to September. On the other hand, a town like this usually gets a big increase in the pretty-girl population as a result of the girls' coming home.

Pottstown, however, is the first exception to the rule that I worked out myself. There may be a few extra eligible girls in town after the commencement exercise season, but I've missed the pretty ones.

WASHINGTON

Bitter Backstage Battles

Mark Taft-Hartley Fight

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, June 5—The legislative roadblock which may prevent any revision of the Taft-Hartley act is the unusually bitter, backstage battle over proposals to outlaw the union shop. The politicians dare not touch this explosive issue, and labor leaders fear that they may lose the protection and privileges which this system now affords them.

It is not generally realized, but almost 100 of 150 witnesses before House Committee hearings testified in opposition to these provisions. Seven court actions have been instituted against them, and six of these have been started by employees themselves. They want complete economic freedom.

Both Taft-Hartley and the Railway Labor acts provide for compulsory unionism. They require an employee to join a union within a specified time, from 60 to 90 days, under penalty of discharge. Both prohibit the so-called "closed shop," although there is no practical difference between that and the union shop, once a worker has been hired.

STATES GIVE PROTECTION:

Thirteen states have passed laws or constitutional amendments providing that the right to work shall not be based on an employee's union affiliation or non-affiliation. As always, interests, affected or restricted by national laws, run to the states for protection against Uncle Sam.

Taft-Hartley concedes the states' jurisdiction in this field, but a 1951 amendment to the Railway Labor act does not.

Measures permitting the states to supersede the Federal laws on this point have been introduced on Capitol Hill. The question has also been raised in several legal disputes.

COMPULSORY UNIONISM:

Labor's underlying fear of any reopening of the labor-management legislation problem has been aggravated by several recent Supreme court decisions. The Roosevelt-Truman body, which was expected to preserve FDR's social and economic reforms, has upheld the right-to-work laws of Virginia, North Carolina and Nebraska.

Worse still from the unions' viewpoint, it was their beloved liberal, Justice Hugo Black, who served the sharp warning against compulsory unionism. In one of the most important decisions on this question, he wrote the majority opinion. He said:

"Just as we have held that the due process clause erects no obstacle to block legislative protection of union members, we now hold that legislative protection can be afforded non-union workers."

In view of Justice Black's background and philosophy, labor spokesmen did not indulge in their usual violent criticism of his ruling. But they did shift their strategy, and now prefer retention of the present law to enactment of even more hostile legislation.

The compromise suits the politicians. Instead of resolving the union shop problem by positive action, they will pass the buck to Federal courts and the state legislatures.

SINCE I WAS 17 I have traveled more than 150,000 miles by air, so I suppose I should be completely casual about the silver birds that cross the sky, but I still find it amusing and even somewhat thrilling to contemplate the fact that I had last night's after-dinner coffee in London, this morning's breakfast eggs in New York.

Each time I cross the Atlantic by plane it seems to me the trip is smoother and shorter, to the point where now anyone hoping for a really good night's sleep en route has to disrobe and hit the sack as soon as the airliner is off the ground.

"Dr. Crane, my doctor recommended that I send for your bulletin on sex," she began, somewhat belligerently.

"But, frankly, I don't see where it would solve my problem. My married life is unhappy. It wasn't based on love."

"My husband knew I didn't love him but said he would wait until the time came when I did fall in love, provided I would just marry him then, before he went to the Army."

"Well, I consented, but he wouldn't wait. He demanded his rights as a husband and instead of growing to love him, I have found myself hating him."

"When he touches me, I draw away. When he tries to kiss me, I turn my head."

"WELL, I DECIDED maybe if I had a baby, then everything would turn out all right."

"Those nine months were the happiest in my marriage. For I could go to bed without fear of being molested."

"But when I entered the delivery room at the hospital, I grew defiant. I pushed the nurses away and railed at my doctor."

"They say a woman shows her true self when she is having a baby. I guess all of the pent-up emotions of my marriage came out then. I was ashamed of myself afterwards."

"I think I'd have got my divorce except for the baby. He made my life halfway livable."

"But I can't stand my husband. I feel more aversion toward him all the time."

"FOR EXAMPLE, he likes nothing but baseball and other sports, while I prefer a romantic movie, window shopping or a dance. And he hates those things."

"He seldom says anything to me anymore, yet I crave companionship. But we have nothing in common, except the baby."

"Dr. Crane, what hope is there for our marriage?"

"Two intelligent people, who love their baby, can change this cat-and-dog existence into a happy homelife. But they must follow the proper technique, both sexually and in their other social relationships."

Cure-All Offered

To the Editor: There is one phase of the dog problem that everyone has overlooked!

The solution to the problem may be a little expensive in the beginning, but in the long run I don't think the whole program will cost as much as an SPCA center or anything of the like.

What I have in mind is a mass sterilization program of both male and female dogs. The effects of such a scheme may not be seen in the immediate future, but in about two or perhaps three years, I think Pottstown will be rid of nearly all its dogs as well as its dog catcher.

The money which is currently going into his pocket for killing off the dogs could be spent elsewhere.

As for an SPCA center or a dog hospital, there really wouldn't be any need for them. The people now involved in trying to make this a better world for dogs could expend their energy in another direction, that of making this a better world for people.

Who would pay for the sterilization of the four-legged animals? Why, the owners, of course. They want the creatures, so let them pay to keep them.

HOLLYWOOD, June 5 — Metro has found a way to add eight weeks to Van Johnson's waning contract — the eight weeks he's had "off" to do his cafe and theater tour! So V. Then they leap back here to sail for "Caine Mutiny" making in Honolulu June 19. (These two have been traveling so much their faces are beginning to look like road-maps!)

And Gina Lollobrigida, whom you'll see with Humphrey Bogart in "Beat the Devil" is now asking $100,000 to star in a Hollywood movie! (We remember when she was under contract at RKO for mere peanuts.)

We also remember Virginia Leith, just signed at 20th-Fox for "Khyber Rifles" (with Ty Power) and she isn't "unknown to Hollywood" as publicized! Saw her at parties here few years ago and asked her name, so beautiful was she! Her recent Life mag layout, plus an independent movie, "Fear and Desire" has finally gotten her long-delayed attention . . . The Leith lass had ze heeg romance with a famed singer in the Hollywoods; and also with an equally famous radio and screen comic. One day the latter was in the elevator of Virginia's apartment house and some people recognizing him, asked for his autograph. He looked 'em right in the eye and beamed, "Oh, no! I'm not so-and-so, but thanks for the compliment. I'm often mistaken for him." (!)

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Korean X-Rayer . . .

Just In Time . . .

★ OUT YONDER—Vince Giangiacomo, ex-Mercury newspaper boy, now is over in Korea helping to take care of U.S. fallen soldiers behind the lines. He is an x-ray technician with the 48th surgical hospital. After leaving The Mercury nearly three years ago, Vince went to work for the Jewish hospital in Philadelphia. He joined the Army the past November. Here is what he penned in a letter to his ex-Mercury boss Walter S. Zimmerman: "Flew non-stop to San Francisco. Stayed at Camp Stoneman, Pittsburg, Calif. for ten days. Then left by 'cattle boat' for Yokohama, Japan. Stayed at an Army camp near Tokyo for several days and the next thing I knew I was on another boat heading for Korea. Docked at Pusan and from there to Seoul I went by train (freight). So here I am sitting in the rice paddies, Korea, taking x-rays. It is not exactly the type of hospital I had in mind, but I guess this is better than a rifle and foxhole. Will be here for at least 1½ years unless something happens up at the truce meetings at Panmunjom. Tell the boys that it doesn't rain crossways over here like everybody thinks."

LANDED—Another recent arrival in Korea is Pvt. Edward L. Emswiler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Emswiler, Royersford RD 1, who is on duty with the Third Infantry division. Before joining the Army in November, Private Emswiler was a molder for the Floyd Wells company. He was a 1950 grad of Royersford high school.

★ START, STOP IN TIME—The arrival of hot weather and the arrival of workmen putting in air-conditioning was nicely timed this week at Security Trust company. Alfred H. Haws, Pottstown refrigeration contractor, got started Thursday on the installation, and George M. Longaker, executive vice president, said he believed the job would be completed by the end of next week. After that will come the new lights, the lowered ceiling, the acoustical tile and finally the new paint and trim. The whole job is expected to be finished in three months, Longaker reported. . . . The stop in time was made by Mrs. Lewis Kessler, 214 South Main street, Spring City. She saw one deer dash in front of her car yesterday morning on Upper Lewis road, south of Limerick. She was about to roll on when it occurred to her there might be another. She slowed down, an instant before a second deer dashed in front of her car.

GIVE AWAY DEPT.—Three kittens

two gray, one black and white, two months old. Phone Mrs. Ray Buckwalter, Pottstown RD 1, at 1257-R-4. . . . Male cocker spaniel dog, black, nine months old. Phone Lloyd Reinart, Boyertown RD 2, at Yellow House 9-4926.

★ CIRCUS TREAT—There are a couple of hundred youngsters who are a lot happier today because of a few generous Pottstown merchants and Donald Davis. It was Davis who served as committee chairman for the Good Will Fire company—sponsored Kelly-Morris circus which played here the past Monday. Davis reported that several hundred tickets were sold in advance to merchants and businessmen in town. But when he delivered the tickets, a number of purchasers returned them to Davis, stating that they had no use for them. So Davis gladly accepted the tickets and in turn passed them out among some of the underprivileged children of town. Some he gave to Capt. C. Robert Flinn of the Salvation Army to distribute among his youngsters. Davis took the rest along with him to the circus and during the night performance, he allowed another 20 children to see the show free.

He Declares Gentiles Need Not Follow The Laws of Moses to Win Salvation

The Golden Text

Peter delivered from prison.
"For ye are all sons of God, through faith in Jesus Christ."
—Galatians 3:26.

Scripture—Acts 15:1-29; Galatians 1-2.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
IN OUR country liberty to worship God in the church of our choice is guaranteed in the United States Constitution. If we obey the laws of the land and live upright lives, we are not restricted to one form of worship. We are all brothers in Christ, as Paul said.

In the early church this liberty was disputed by certain Jews who felt that Christianity was only for those who obeyed the laws laid down by Moses. They forgot that Jesus talked with Samaritans who were despised by the orthodox Jews because they differed from them in religious matters. Jesus was also accused of "eating with publicans and sinners," while He was on earth, and of desecrating the Sabbath, yet He remembered, by permitting His disciples to eat wheat kernels when they were hungry on that day.

If these sticklers for Jewish customs had had their way, we might never have heard of Christ. Paul, who had once been an extremist in this matter, and had cruelly persecuted the Christians, now rises to proclaim liberty to be saved by Gentiles as well as Jews.

While Paul was in Antioch some men came from Judea and taught the brethren there, but they said that unless the Jewish customs were observed, Gentiles could not be saved. Paul and Barnabas disputed that, so it was decided that these two would go to Jerusalem and discuss the question with the apostles and elders of the Mother church.

In Jerusalem certain of the sect of the Pharisees which believed insisted that the law of Moses should be obeyed. After a great deal of discussion, Peter rose and said that God had commanded him to preach to the Gentiles, "And God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Ghost, even as He did us;

"And put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith. But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they."

There was silence then while Paul and Barnabas told "what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them."

Then James, Jesus' brother, asked to be heard, and he suggested that they write a letter to the churches, saying that they need not be troubled in this matter as long as they refrained from certain practices which were bad in themselves. He quoted the prophets to prove his contention.

So a letter was written and sent to Antioch by Paul, Barnabas, Judas, surnamed Barsabas, and Silas, and when the letter was read in the Antioch church the people rejoiced greatly.

Galatia was a wild country and its inhabitants were restless, emotional people and could easily be persuaded to change their doctrines. There were mischief makers there who were trying to stir up animosity against Paul and to destroy his missionary labors and the authority of his gospel. Therefore he wrote his beautiful and helpful letter to the Galatians.

In the first chapter he told of his conversion through the vision of Christ. Then, he said he had retreated to a quiet place and meditated for three years, then went to Jerusalem to see Peter and stayed with him for awhile, before beginning his missionary journeys.

Fourteen years later Paul went to Jerusalem again, taking with him Barnabas and Titus, who was a Greek. Titus was accepted by the church, was given the right hand of fellowship and authorized to preach liberty in the matter of the Jewish law.

Peter, Paul relates, became faint-hearted about this matter in Antioch where he had been mingling freely with Gentiles. He ceased to do so when the matter of the law of Moses was brought up by some Pharisees. Paul, on the other hand, took a firm and determined stand. He rebuked Peter for his faint-heartedness, saying, "If thou, being a Jew, livest after the manner of Gentiles, and not as do the Jews, why compellest thou the Gentiles to live as do the Jews?"

"A man is not justified by the works of the law, but by faith in Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law."

"I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God who loveth me, and gave Himself for me."

Paul Champions Christian Liberty

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

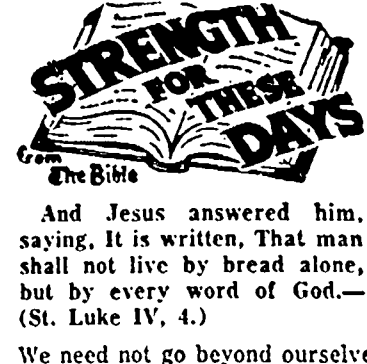

In the Antioch church a group of men came from Judea who insisted that no one could be saved except he follow the law of Moses and become as Jews. There was much discussion in the church on this matter.

Paul and Barnabas went to Jerusalem and argued that Gentiles who believed in Christ could be saved without complying with Jewish law, pointing out that such believers had received the Holy Ghost even as they themselves.

Peter agreed with Paul and Barnabas, and James, brother of Jesus, quoted from the prophets to prove the argument. He suggested that a letter be written to the churches, instructing them in matters of behavior.

At Antioch Paul rebuked Peter for not standing firm under the opposition of certain Pharisees who insisted upon the Jewish law for believing Gentiles, denying them liberty in the matter.

And Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.—(St. Luke IV, 4.)

We need not go beyond ourselves and our daily needs and desires to know the everlasting truth in the saying of Christ Jesus. Neither a million pounds of bread nor yet a million dollars can give us, in our anguish and distress, a single moment of peace of mind or soul. Only God, through His Son, our Saviour, can give us that blessing.

"Yes...I Condemned THE CATHOLIC CHURCH"

"And you would, too," wrote a non-Catholic recently, "if all the things I heard about it were true."

"For years, I kept hearing that the Catholic Church was opposed to the Bible and tried to suppress it. I was told that the Church had changed Christ's teaching and practiced pompous pagan forms of worship. It was told to me that Catholics worship statues and images, and that the Catholic Church defied God's law and changed the Sabbath."

"But now I have learned that these stories and many others about the Catholic Church are not true—and never were."

Every day, thousands of our non-Catholic friends and neighbors are discovering, as this man did... that Catholic belief, worship and history are widely misrepresented and misunderstood.

That is why we publish these advertisements... and invite you to write for free explanatory pamphlets. We want you to know us as we are—not as false rumors and slanders represent us to be. We want you to know... if only for your own information... what the Catholic Church actually teaches, and what we Catholics actually believe.

This enables you to get authentic information about the Catholic Church—to investigate in the privacy of your own home. Then... even though you may not agree with Catholic beliefs and practices... you will at least understand home. It explains Catholic teaching on such matters as divorce—mixed marriages—gambling and drinking—why Catholics do not attend non-Catholic worship—and answers many of the false rumors you have heard about the Catholic Church. No cost—no obligation. Write today—ask for Pamphlet No. KC-15.

The blessing will conclude the open-air service, and the procession will then return to the present church.

TWO COPPER boxes will be inserted in the cornerstone when it is set in the northwest-corner of the partly-completed church building.

One will contain all the items, taken recently from the cornerstone of the present church; the other will contain newer items of significance.

Prayer for The Week

By ALLAN SHIVERS
Governor of Texas

Heavenly Father, teach me to pray so that I may acknowledge my faith in Thee, and banish worry which is a denial of faith. Let me put my hand in Thine and trust to Thy living guidance.

Teach me to pray, O Lord, for I know that prayer leads through the door of faith into the joy of Thy presence; while worry leads through the door of anxiety into the darkness of loneliness and discouragement.

senger of September, 1896; two copies of The Lutheran, dated September and October 1, 1896; and Der Kleine Katechismus and Augsburgischer Confession also will be included.

OF SPECIAL interest locally are two old newspapers, the Pottstown Daily News and the Daily Pottstown Ledger, both from October 3, 1896, and telling the story of the cornerstone laying at the old church on October 4 of that year. They, too, will be included in the first box.

Other items from the tin box of the old cornerstone that will go into the first box of the new one include 35 cents in coin and several manuscript pages on which the ink has faded so much that the writing cannot be read.

All of these relics, which have been on display this week at the present church, have aged to the point of becoming very fragile, the Rev. Brown said.

Among the items in the second box will be a copy of today's Mercury, containing this story of tomorrow's ceremonies.

THE CONSTITUTION of Grace church, a list of charter and present members, and a register of the three pastors who have served the parish since its beginnings, will be included in the second box.

With them in the second box will be a copy of the Holy Scriptures given to the Rev. Brown on the occasion of his graduation from High school, a Common Service book of the United Lutheran Church in America, a small metal cross (a copy of the one given to the Rev. Brown when he was ordained) and a 1953 Year Book of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Also The Lutheran of June 3, 1953; a copy of each issue of the Charism (a small newspaper published six times a year by Grace church) a brochure used in the building fund campaign conducted by the church the past year, a booklet prepared for the 50th anniversary of the parish in 1946, and several coins of different denominations.

The two new boxes will be carried in procession by Elmer Keck, vice president of the parish, and Harold Binder, chairman of the congregation's building committee.

These men will be representatives of the congregation, with Keck bearing the box containing the items from the old church and Binder carrying the box of new ones.

After the service at the new building, when the procession has returned to the present church, refreshments will be served in the Sunday school rooms.

Bible Words to Live by

It is not easy to select any one Bible verse as being of more help than others; but I think I would choose the fifth verse of the second chapter of Philippians.

"Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus."

Here in one brief sentence, the master preacher of the Christian Church states the aim of the Christian life. We cannot, of course, attain to the mind of Christ in so far as quantity is concerned, because He is divine and we are human; but through His marvelous grace, it is possible for us to have in us the same characteristics of holy and sacrificial living which came to such expression in His earthly life. It is a high standard and calls for divine help, but if there were enough people in the world with the mind of Christ, it would sweeten and elevate human society and result in a sane and orderly world.

THE FOURTH "R"

Some American pioneers believed that the limit of education was the teaching of "reading", "ritin", and "rithmetic." How far education has gone beyond that crude idea!

It has dared so many spectacular things that unless Man's spiritual progress keeps pace with his scientific achievements, the results may destroy him.

What we need most today is education in the most important "R" of all—Religion.

Here is where the Church—through its Sunday Schools and Vacation Church Schools—steps in to help save civilization from itself. We must strengthen the fourth "R" or the other three will mean nothing.

Unless education is made to include the knowledge and the use of moral and spiritual facts, all the rest will be in vain.

If you are not interested in the Church and its educational program, think of it in terms of what it can do for your children. Think of it in terms of insurance against what must be a black future for us all if the higher values are neglected.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend the Church regularly and give:

- (1) For the sake of the Church.
- (2) For the sake of the community and nation.
- (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs the moral and material support that can be given to the Church.
- (4) For the sake of the individual.

MR. AND MRS. MAURICE LINDERMAN

Maurice Lindermans Celebrate Their Golden Wedding Today

Fifty years seem more like five, from a son, daughter or grandchild. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Linderman, Linfield, who are celebrating their golden wedding today.

"Family" is their magic word for insuring a happy wedded life, and after a half-century, they say their happiest hours still are those spent with their offspring.

And very few days go by, Mrs. Linderman said, without a visit share the anniversary celebration at an openhouse from 2 to 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Mr. Linderman was born in Isabella, Chester county, on Sept. 4, 1882, and his wife was born Dec. 18, 1882 in Royersford.

They met at a festival held in Linfield Reformed church one June and two years later stood in the parsonage of the Parkerford church to be led through their nuptial vows by the Rev. Johnson.

That was June 6, 1903, and the Lindermans still worship in Linfield Reformed church, where they met.

Two horses drew the carriage which carried them to Parkerford from Linfield for the morning ceremony. They honeymooned in Birdsboro, where the groom's brother met them in another two-horse carriage and fed them a chicken dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Linderman set up son's hunting lodge in Potter housekeeping in Linfield and county.

Mrs. Linderman devoted her life to her home and her family and they remain her greatest interests.

The couple's two children are Marvin Linderman, 1235 Cherry street, and Mrs. Earl J. Horner, Linfield.

In addition to the open house tomorrow, the Lindermans also enjoy their frequent trips to their marriage with a family dinner.

New Type "Feed Bag" Fashions Featured by Major Hollow Home Economics Club

Feed bag fashions were featured in a new type of style show presented by the Major Hollow Home Economics club in the home of Mrs. Alvin Wetty, Royersford.

Eighteen costumes, made from cotton bags which originally contained feed, flour and fertilizer, were modeled by club members as Helen Astheimer, commentator, described their details.

Besides clothes, Mrs. Astheimer, said, the cotton bags make curtains, slipcovers and luncheon sets.

Mary Major opened the style parade in a checked frock, and Grace Astheimer showed a "dawn-buster" housecoat cut from a red and white print.

Geometric designs in assorted colors adorned the dress worn by Mrs. Major for her second appearance and Mrs. Astheimer reappeared wearing a four piece play ensemble.

Hostess Mrs. Wetty doubled as a model to show off a tailored daytime gown of floral print.

Pastel green bags were the source for the dainty little girl frock modeled by moppet Linda Swenson, and Mina Mogel looked ahead to Summer in a yellow sun dress.

Navy and white colored the floral print modeled by Mrs. Wetty, and "at home" styles were represented by Mrs. Mogel whose apron was made from brown plaid cotton.

For marketing, Mrs. Mogel next modeled a slim, two-piece suit combining solid brown cotton with brown and white checks.

Pockets—large and eye-catching—provided the interest in a print frock worn by Grace Astheimer and Jane Astheimer modeled a school dress whose checks were red, green, navy and white.

Thelma Swenson modeled another open-piece print, and a little girl's party dress was worn by Linda Swenson.

Slumberland styles included Linda's feed bag pajamas, and her bunny doll wore a matching pair.

Mary Major chose a basic dress of solid gray, accented with a plaid scarf and cummerbund.

Climax of the demonstration was a southern belle Summer formal made from pastel pink and black cotton.

Twenty-two members and four guests attended the event, and Marie Barlow read a brief history of the hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross," which the group later sang.

Marie Barlow was in charge of the current events period and Sue Barlow read the poem "Summer Children."

For Sept. 9, a flower show was scheduled, to be presented in the Linfield Fire hall. Judging will begin at noon. Exhibits must be entered by 11 a. m. Marie Barlow and Sarah Major will be in charge of awards.
